

Sacred Agriculture, Biodynamic Principles and Methods for Healing Ourselves and the Earth

Micah Edelstein

Public Talk

May 4

7:00-9:00pm

Wallace Museum Rte 6 Wallace

Free event, everybody welcome

“Planetary influences on plant growth”

Learn about biodynamic methods through the four elements and the cosmic planetary rhythms.

Workshop

May 5

10 am to 4 pm

2665 North Wallace Rd

- how biodynamics heals the earth and ourselves
- the principles behind biodynamic preparations
- sacred geometry
- platonic solids and their connection to the elements
- principles of co-creation where the two suns overlap for the vesica piscis
- ashing techniques for weeds and pest control

There will be opportunities to ask questions and discuss themes of your own interest.

Cost: $30.00

Please bring your own lunch and beverage

Contact Silvana at 257 2428 to register for this workshop

Micah Edelstein attributes his love of biodynamic agriculture to Waldorf education based on the teachings of Rudolf Steiner, the 20th century poet, philosopher, scientist, artist, and spiritual initiate. He credits his Waldorf education for giving him a balanced approach to science, art and religion, and the ability to see how all three weave together in different proportions in our lives. He completed undergraduate studies in Astronomy, English, Film and Theatre at Dalhousie University in 2006. Micah has presented workshops on biodynamic principles to both the Dalhousie Gardening Society and Saint Mary's University Gardening Society. Micah is a member of the Nova Scotia Anthroposophical Society and the North American and Ontario Biodynamic Societies. He volunteers for The Carrot Co-op, an initiative in Halifax for local, affordable, healthy food, where he is working toward local food procurement issues to help connect farmers more directly to the co-op.

